The Chas Monson Co Mackintoshes

In time of peace prepare for war. In dry weather prepare for wet weather. How many of you stay at home because you have no Mackintosh, or because your old one leaks. Some of you are like the Arkansaw Traveler. When it rains it is too wet to buy one, when it is dry you don't need one.

Three days selling at the price they came to us at—Monday Tuesday and Wednesday.

Parasols.

Parasols, of black and red and blue—all colors; parasols with natural sticks and fancy sticks and ivory sticks and silver and gold and Dresden china and filigree work. Twisted and straight knobs and crooks—a thousand different kinds—a bewilderingment of beauty.

All fancies and novelties at 1/2 off the price ticket—and all plain and colored Sun Umbrellas at manufacturer's prices, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Handkerchiefs.

If there was a ghost of a thread of cotton in these goods you might think that helped to cheapen, but they are pure linen—only kind we sell.

100 dozen Men and Women's plain, hemstitched Handkerchiefs at 13c. each—Everywhere 25c. or money back—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Muslin Underwear.

Slightly, dainty, liberal creations of lace and embroidery and muslin and cambric. No woman in New Haven need look further for a supply of proper Underwear, no matter how exacting her tastes; no woman need look further, no matter how she values economy. And with Underwear we include Infant's Wear.

All at factory prices for just 3 days—no longer—no shorter—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

P. S.—We've seen to it that you'll have plenty of Sales-people to serve you.

RUNAWAY FROM THE ASYLUM.

Escaped Saturday, Were Captured in Bridgeport and Brought Back Sunday.

Two thirteen-year-old lads, Willie Dunn, whose home is in Bridgeport, and Tommie Donlon, who hails from Newtown, and both of whom have been for some time at St. Francis' Orphan asylum, near away from that institution Saturday afternoon and started to walk to Bridgeport. Late yesterday afternoon they were arrested in Bridgeport by officers of that city. Rev. Father Rogers of Bridgeport was notified of the capture and communicated with the New Haven police in reference to the matter. The boys were returned to the asylum about 7:30 o'clock last evening in charge of a clergyman, who brought them from Bridgeport.
